

What an incredibly busy, but equally successful week we've had at BPA. All pupils in school have returned after the half term break fully rested, refreshed and actively engaging in their new Topics for the half term ahead.

We've had several visits this week to school. The feedback we received was outstanding: they were blown away by all of the hard work that goes on in school, both from our staff team and the pupils. As a school community, this feedback is something we should all take great pride in as it is the collective effort of every single person that has created this wonderful learning environment for our pupils.

I hope everyone has an enjoyable weekend. Please do ensure you are keeping an eye out for all of our upcoming events in the build up to Christmas.
